Motocross takes a gnarly toll on our bodies, and recovering from a hard race (or crash!) takes multiple days. During one of our many trips to Natural Health Sports Therapy to visit our favorite chiropractor (and part-time bodyguard), Dr. H. Rey Gubernick, he hooked us up to the Marc Pro to help with a strained hamstring. Believe us when we say that we got on our phone and purchased one before we had even left the building.

The Marc Pro uses a non-fatiguing electrical pulse that causes the muscles to contract and the blood vessels to dilate, which in turn results in greater blood flow to the area. And blood flow, ladies and gents, is what promotes recovery, among other things...

We're not the only ones who bought a Marc Pro of our own: sweet Dean Wilson (shown), Justin Bogle, Marvin Musquin, Ken Roczen, Nate Adams, Twitch, Wil Hahn, Broc Tickle, Josh Hill, Matt Goerke, Davi Millsaps, Carey Hart, and Robbie Maddison are all firm believers, too. Trust us: it's amazing.
